BOURBON AUDACITY.

The Bourbon frauds and crimes in the states of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississirpi, Louisiana, and some other states, have become so much a matter of authentic history that it is oly impossible to deny them. While it is well known that Senator Lamar and his colleague, and most if not all the "members of the House of Representatives from Mississippi, as well as Ben Hill and Gen. Gordon and the members from Georgia, sit in their seats drenched in the blackness of fraud and intimidation-placed there by the most palpa-"ad ble violation of the laws and of equity -it is yet tolerated. They associate on equal terms with Senators and members who came to their seats by a natural and fair expression of the will of constituencies, and are accorded all the priveleges of their high positions. This can only be endured, because it is not plain how it can be helped.

But lately the southern Bourbo newspapers, and orators have out-Heroded Herod in beastly and brazen boasting over the infamous manner in which they acquired power, and while Tombs is declaring that Georgia was carried and is held by fraudulent counting and by bayonets which drove the negroes from the polls, poor old Aleck Stephens is wasting the small remnant of senility remaining to him in senseless platitudes about the necessity of superior races subordinating to themselves inferior races. The attitude of the southern Democrats now is one of self-gratulation and self-laudation at the crimes by which they gained their present control of affairs. They do not pretend to conceal the disgusting facts or to deny them, but openly and audaciously boast of them. They even surpass in effrontery the wretches in the slums of New York who commit the same sort of offences against law, but inre asbamed to own up to it and never do unless on the compulsion of the

Such is the inheritance of infamy which events have bequeathed to the southern Democrats. It is of little use to moralize upon the effects of such acts upon the character of the population among which they occur. That the popular will of commonwealths is subverted by brutal intimidation, that Congressional Republican majorities as overwhelming as that for which Chalmers in Mississppi now fraudulently sits, are driven from the polls by armed mobs is not disputed but boasted of and seems to be now no sufficient grounds for dogmatizing complaints-is all admitted. And Mr. Chalmers himself, covered all over with fraud, treads the halls of the Capitol with impunity, knowing that he is not entitled to the seat. But even a member as bold as Butler and Conger or the intrepid Eugene Hale has not confronted these fraudulently sitting members with the glaring facts. It is known that if the Damocratic members of the House, seated by fraud were unseated as they ought to be, the Democrats would be left in a minority in that body. And yet no voice of indignation is raised.

yet no voice of indignation is raised.

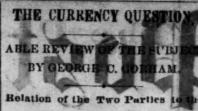

If any party of the country ought to be alarmed at this state of things it is the south itself. And if any class in the south ought to be alarmed it is the southern whites. These subversions of the primary principles of our government and of human rights are educating a class of men who will some day torment the present perpetrators of these with the horrors of anarchy were use. There has been some disaster, but, if we shall learn by the Maine campaign to set our record more thoroughly before the people of this country, in their Congressional districts—if we can recall to our ranks those who have left it been use of a misunderstanding in regard to our attitude on the currency question, the sacrifices may lead to good results.

Without any criticism whatever on the management of the campaign in offenses with the horrors of anarchy and mob law. It would not be well to educate among us a class of thieves and assassins and it is not safe to thus set the example of these high violations of law, It is a sword which will sometime cut with two edges. The wrongs . With which this class are now visiting the negroes in five states will some day be turned upon the whites themselves by the whites who have been trained

The Norristown Herald has an item of news from a theological studen caltien He writes:

GREENBACKS AND RESUMPTION.

In the course of a speech on the issues of the campaign, Mr. Gorham spoke as follows on the greenback ques-tion and the subject of resumption:

The greenback circulation of $316,

000,000 is not merely an obligation of the Government to tall due and be paid, but layful mosty of the United States, and a legal-tender for the payment of debts. That currency was brought into existence by the Republican party at a time when the batton had to use all its were creaking at every act of the Gov-ernment and seeking to embarrass it in

This party will not trail its banner to bid for votes, applause, nor go before the country with any demagogue appeal or promise to convert one dollar into two; nor will it on the other hand, in the interest of any set of men, endeavor to compel two dollars into the form of one.

CONTRACTION AND INFLATION. This party has not favored inflation, nor has it favored contraction. Inflation is a ragged tramp, having no repect for its own welfare and no regards for the rights of property or the honor. of the country; but contraction, its twin, is a well dressed pickpocket, in-tent upon confiscating the property of those who happen to be in debt to other

It is as criminal to try to make me pay two dollars for one as it is for me to make a man that I owe take one dollar for two. [Applause.] This party stands squarely upon the laws it has helped to enact. It has no decree of expulsion to issue against any man for his opinion on the currency. On this money question there are Republicans who prefer an exclusive national bank circulation. They are few in number in my judgment. There are other Republicans who would prefer to see the national banks abolished and their circulation displaced by greenback circulation. I believe that class to be the most numerous; perhaps this is because I belong, myself, to that class. Applause. But, while I don't expect to be read out of the party because of my opinion, I don't see why any man should lack room in the party for entertaining the opposite views.

There has been a party in the country honestly betieving that the resumption of specie payment meant the payment of the greenbacks and their destruction. They said, "Why not? If you pay a bond, do you not destroy it?" Surely; but the greenback is not, like a bond, aimply an evidence of indebtedness; it is money.

The question came up in Congress whether the Executive Dequite recently. It was not when the question of its constitutionality was before the Supreme Court, for you cannot find in the record a single Democratic Supreme Judge of the United States who did not, with universal Democratic approval, give his opinion that the greenbacks were an unconstitutional issue. There is a party in this country called might be free banking, and that hence forth no greenback currency should be retired nuless for, every $80 retired $100 went out to the country in the shape of national bank notes. Is it contraction to assue $100 of national bank notes and retire $80 of greenbacks? We may have a preference as to which currency we will have but that was not contract tion. Even under this no reduction was to be made of the greenbacks below $300,000,000. After the passage of this free banking clause, more old banks retired than new ones were formed, so that we now have some $346,000,000 in greenbacks, and $320,000,000 of national bank notes. Now, with an intelli-gent understanding of this question, and the utmost freedom of opinion in the Republican party as to which of these two paper moneys is the best, we should not need a third party to carry out any peculiar views. If you can find the Republican party controlled by those who seek to impair the value of your property by the contraction of the currency, it is time to leave it; but > arrived NO DICTATION BY THE MONEY POWER. Democratic oracles tell you the Republican party is under the dictation of Wall street and the national banks, Since when? From what evidence, Mr. Chairman? How has the action of Congress justified any such charge? Was it by the enactment of a bill introduced by Mr. Fort, a Republican member from Illinois, at the lest session, prohibiting the further retirement of the greenbacks, and for which the Rein the House voted in the proportion of about three to one, and in the Senate in the same proportion?

We have had during the last 48 hours a great reminder. The battle in Maine has been a reconnectance, and has shown where our weakness was, and how the forces of the enemy were disposed.

There has been some disaster, but, if we shall learn by the Maine campaign it we find any Wall street sharper you will see no lack of order in the performance of the money by five shall learn by the Maine campaign it we find any Wall street sharper You will see no lack of order in the performance of the money by five funding party is the great red dragon which is now to be fought. Wherever the Democratic party is in the minority it is always ready to be swallowed up by any third party, that can take enough out of the Republican ranks to give us to do, and discharge our honest obligions according to their letter. Without any criticism whatever on the management of the campaign in the State of Maine, I firmly believe that the party was misunderstood by many who have heretofore acted with it in that State. In the anxiety there to lead out against inflation of the currency and the wild acheme for issuing an unlimited volume of irredeemable paper money, they have omitted, perhaps, clearly to state just how far the Republican party has hitherto gone, and still does go, on the question of greenback currency. Is it not important to have that understood? The resumption question, too, has been misunderstood. There has been a party in the country hard left them do it. If you think they honestly believing that the resumption are pleasant companions in the nation— Confederates to take possession of the Treasury box of this country, sit still and let them do it. THE PRPURITORN PLATFORM OPPOSED

The laws enacted by Republican votes at the last session of Congress, are the platform of the Republican, party. If there ever was in contemplation a proposition to destroy, first, half the metal money, and then half the paper money of this country, it has been foiled by the act of Congress to remonetize by the act of Congress to remonetize silver, and the act to prohibit the re-tirement of greenbacks, both of which measures, as I have said, received the of three fourths of the Republican hers of the Senate and House.

CUSTOMS DUES. The Secretary of the Treasury has sived an order, within a few days, providing that the subtreasurers may pay ilver coin in exchange for green ba in such quantities as may be demanded and now when any many has duties to pay he has simply to go to the nearest subtreasury with his greenbacks, receive silver coin or silver certificates in exchange, and with the same go to the custom house and pay his duties, so that substantially the greenback to day is on a par with gold and silver coin, and this ought to destroy the demand for old, which is still quoted at a small ction of a cent premium in the mark-I believe that in a week you will find no quotation of any premium on gold, because it will be of no earthly use to any man. You will be able to do nothing with gold which you cannot do with silver, and nothing with silver which you cannot with greenbacks; because you can always exchange one for either of the others. That is resump-tion—convertibility. It is resumption which is not contraction, and the scare which has for the last three years been upon this country, through the wide-spread fear that half of our paper money was to be destroyed in January, 1879 that false impression is forever removed. Whoever has a dollar now may have either of the three kinds of dollars. There is no lack of room in the Repub ican party for those who are greenback men, and if they will be faithful and thoughtful, and look this question through, they will find that there is no place for them outside of the Republi-

Democratic ranks south of the Potomac. I have sat for nearly five months in the committee rooms of the Republican party in Washington, daily reading and replying to correspondence from all sections of the country; and if the Re-publicans of Essex County could see he appeals coming up to that commit-ee from tried and good and true Re-publicans in the Southern States, their earts would awaken to a new Republican life, and they would swear that the party of the rebellion, and its allies in the North should have no easy vic-tory over that party which for sixteen years ruled the destinies of the country. Applause. One more word in regard to the currency question.

SENATOR THURMAN'S SPEECH. Senator Thurman, of Ohio, a most Senator Thurman, of Ohio, a most estimable gentleman, and one for whom I have the highest personal regard, has sounded what has been call the Democratic key-note in Ohio, and I have been somewhat amused to see the comments of some Republican papers on his speech. If he said anything in that speech which I cannot agree with it was when he claimed for his views that they were the Democratic doctrine. Some of his own party papers say thay are not the doctrines he has hitherto defended.

He is a grave and reverend Scuator, but has a good deat of humor in his composition, and I can well imagine how he has been laughing in his sleeve at the effect of his speech upon some Republicans. His is said to be "the Ohio rdea."

This famous "Ohio idea" seems to me to be, for an audacious Downs to me wh feantically to be, for an audacious Democrat resh frantically up to a Republican a nounce the views hitherto maintains by the Republican, and induce the Republican to run away from his own documents.
